

Welcome to the Georgia Historical Society's Research Center

The Georgia Historical Society (GHS) was founded in 1839 to collect, preserve, and share Georgia history. This document is intended to provide you with an overview of the resources available at the GHS Research Center. This is not an exhaustive list of all GHS resources. For specific titles and shelf locations, as well as to identify additional research resources, we suggest you search our Research Center catalogs at www.georgiahistory.com or ask reference staff for further information.

Admission to the Research Center is $5 per day, or free of charge for members. Prices for photocopies range from .50 cents to $2.00 depending on the size of the original and type of copy requested (GHS members receive a 10% discount). Patrons are welcome to take photographs without flash of the building. There is a $12 daily fee (or $10 for members) to take photographs of any material, please see a member of the reference staff for further inquiries. All fees will be paid in full at the end of your visit. Also, please note the GHS collection does not circulate; all materials must be used on site. Good luck in your research and please do not hesitate to ask reference staff for further assistance.

Archival Collections: GHS archival collections contain original material ranging from personal papers to photographs to organizational records dating from the 17th-21st centuries.

- Search the Research Center Catalog or Archival Collection Finding Aids Database to find collections relevant to your research topic. Collection numbers are prefixed with an "GHS" to indicate archival material. Collections are described in the Finding Aids Database. Finding Aids provide detailed information regarding specific collection content to help researchers determine whether the collection is of use.
- To request materials be retrieved from the archives, please ask a reference staff member.

Books: GHS contains thousands of books on Georgia, southern history, biography, genealogy, etc.

- Books are cataloged and searchable in the Research Center Catalog. Once a book has been identified in the catalog, note the location (Main or Rare) and the Call Number. If the book is in the "Main" collection, it is available for browsing in the Reading Room. The shelving arrangement begins upstairs at the south-east corner of the building and continues alphabetically around the upper mezzanine following the Library of Congress Classification System.
- To request a "Rare" book be retrieved from the archives, please ask a reference staff member.

Census Records: United States Census records are available for Georgia and other southern states for the years 1790 (reconstructed), 1820, 1830, 1840, 1850, 1860, 1870, 1880, 1890, 1900, 1910, 1920, and 1930. The Georgia federal censuses for 1790, 1800, and 1810 were destroyed by fire. Records are available in print, on microfilm, or via GHS's subscription to Ancestry.com (available at the public computers).

- Georgia county census indexes are also available at the Research Center. Each index includes the county abbreviation and census page number for listed individuals. After obtaining the county abbreviation and census page number, consult the black binder labeled "Census on Microfilm" to get the microfilm reel number for the listing you seek.
- Copies can be obtained at the microfilm machines for $0.25 cents per page. Reference staff can provide change and any assistance you may need with the machines or locating reels of microfilm.

Georgia Historical Quarterly: Published since 1917, this scholarly journal provides article-length coverage on all varieties of Georgia, Savannah, and southern history. The entire series also available online via JSTOR.

- All issues are searchable in JSTOR up to the most recent three years.

Maps: The GHS collection of maps includes significant resources detailing both the development of the state of Georgia and the nation.

- Maps are cataloged and searchable in the Research Center Catalog. Search for the subject "Maps" to see individual maps and archival collections containing maps.
- To request a map be retrieved from the archives, please ask a reference staff member. Additional, secondary source maps (the Waring Maps) are housed in the reading room and are available for browsing.

Newspapers: Georgia and Savannah-area newspapers from 1763 to present are available on microfilm. Printed indexes for Savannah-area newspapers are available for the periods 1763-1844, 1850-1891, and June 1929-1985. Indexes for 1891-1895 are available on microfilm. Indexes for Savannah-area newspapers do not exist for September 1895-May 1929. GHS does, however, have the newspapers for these non-indexed years on microfilm.

- Consult the index for your subject or name of interest and note the three-letter newspaper abbreviation and date listed for the reference. Then, utilizing the binder labeled "Newspapers on Microfilm" determine which reel of microfilm holds the newspaper you seek.

Periodicals: The GHS library houses over 300 periodical titles dating from the mid-18th century to the present including scholarly history journals from each of Georgia's neighboring states. Many early titles relate to agricultural endeavors, for example the Southern Cultivator, as well as general interest publications like The Gentleman's Magazine.

- Many periodicals are cataloged and searchable in the Research Center Catalog, but not all of them.
- To request a title that is listed as “rare”, please ask a reference staff member.

Vertical Files: These can often be the best place to begin for general research needs. The files can hold newspaper clippings, pamphlets, student papers, and research notes. We have files for Subjects (includes buildings, events, eras, and locations), as well as Biographies and Genealogies.

- Each series of vertical files has its own index, accessible online (georgiahistory.com/research-the-collection/search-our-collection/additional-resources-and-links/). Consult the index first to determine if we have a file related to your research subject.

Vital Records: Georgia did not keep a statewide official registry of births or deaths until 1919, or official marriage records until 1805. GHS has some published records of births, deaths, and marriages for Chatham County that predate 1919, as well as records, abstracts, and indexes from other counties. Vital records may be available for other counties and locations, please search our Research Center catalogs for specific holdings or ask reference staff for further information. You may also search the vital records databases on Ancestry.com. GHS subscribes to Ancestry.com and Fold3, both are accessible from the Research Center public computers. Savannah's Research Library and Municipal Archives also holds a series of ledgers that contain chronologically arranged lists of birth, marriage, and death records for approximate dates 1898-1916.

- An index to Georgia death certificates for 1919-1994 is available on microfiche. Other death information is available in the Main book collection: Early Deaths in Savannah, Georgia, 1763-1803: Obituaries and Legal Notices (Call Number F294 .S2 E37), the Register of Deaths in Savannah, Georgia series (Call Number F294 .S2 R35) for dates 1853-1938, as well as in multiple cemetery indexes at call number(s) F294 .S2 B65; C37; L28. GHS also holds the Chatham County Health Department Death Cards, 1803-1893 (MS 1712) and Chatham County Coroners Inquests 1845, 1877-1965 (MS 5125).
- Marriage records are available in the Main book collection for dates 1748-1877 in Marriages of Chatham County, Georgia (Call Number F292 .C37 M37, volumes I & II). For dates 1964-1971 and 1973-1992, please see our microfiche holdings.
